Understanding Who Issues NDIS Worker Screening Clearances

No — Worker Checks does not process or issue NDIS Worker Screening Checks.

Each state and territory in Australia has its own NDIS Worker Screening Unit, which is the only authorised body that conducts these checks and issues clearances, cards, or registration numbers.

Where to Apply for an NDIS Worker Screening Check

State / Territory	Apply for NDIS Worker Screening Check
Australian Capital Territory (ACT)	Apply via Access Canberra – NDIS Worker Screening
New South Wales (NSW)	Apply via Service NSW – NDIS Worker Check
Northern Territory (NT)	Apply via SAFE NT – NDIS Worker Screening
Queensland (QLD)	Apply via QLD Disability Worker Screening Unit
South Australia (SA)	Apply via DHS Screening Unit – NDIS Worker Check
Tasmania (TAS)	Apply via Dept of Justice - RWVP Check
Victoria (VIC)	Apply via VIC Government – NDIS Worker Screening Check
Western Australia (WA)	Apply via Department of Communities – WA NDIS Worker Check

How Worker Checks Can Help

While Worker Checks cannot conduct NDIS Worker Screening Checks directly, we help you stay compliant by offering fast, accredited checks that complement NDIS screening requirements:

- Nationally Coordinated Criminal History Check (Police Check) – ACIC-accredited, accepted across most workforce categories
- VEVO Right-to-Work Check – verifies visa status within 60 minutes for international workers
- Support Worker Plan – bundles police, VEVO, and identity checks for complete compliance

These checks support organisations and workers who must maintain ongoing screening documentation alongside their NDIS clearance.
